Dear Thomas O Jones:

Congratulations!

You have earned IEEE Life Membership.

IEEE Life Membership is reserved for those individuals who have been part of the IEEE community for a sustained period of time. Earning this status recognizes your achievements in technology as well as the significant impact you have had on the growth and development of IEEE. We are grateful for your loyalty.

IEEE Life Members can be found among the most active and engaged volunteers. They serve as reviewers, editors, and conference organizers. They participate in the development of standards, organize and participate in local meetings and serve in leadership roles at all levels of the organization. The contributions of IEEE Life Members are a key to continued success and preservation of the organization for generations to come.

As a token of appreciation, IEEE will henceforth waive your base membership dues. It is the least the organization can do to honor your service. If you have been a member of a technical society or the IEEE Standards Association for at least five consecutive years prior to reaching Life status, you may be entitled to additional waivers.

Your new IEEE Life Member card and a commemorative certificate from the IEEE Life Member Committee are enclosed. We hope you show them to colleagues and friends with pride.

Thank you for your sustained contribution to IEEE's success over many decades.

Sincerely,

Dr. Barry L. Shoop, P.E.
